```
Node* insert_aux(Node* root, int value) {
Node* o;
if (root == null) {
  o = new Node(value);
else {
  if (root.value == value) {
    o = root;
  else {
    if (value < root.value) {</pre>
      root.left = insert_aux(root.left, value);
    root.left = balance(root, LEFT);
      o = root;
                                                                 root
                                                                                     0
    else {
      // Symmetrical
                                                                        h \nu > w
                                       bal
return o;
                                             ins_aux
```