```
Node* insert_aux(Node* root, int value) {
  Node* o;
  if (root == null) {

o = new Node(value);
  else {
    if (root.value == value) {
      o = root;
    else {
      if (value < root.value) {</pre> root.left = insert_aux(root.left, value);
        root.left = balance(root, LEFT);
        o = root;
                                                                root = null
      else {
                                                                                          RT(0)
        // Symmetrical
                                                            BT(h=0)
                                                                                     value
                                                                                            BT(0)
                                                                             BT(0)
  return o;
```